4 ARMED BANDITS GET $25,000 PAYROLL OF TRENTON FIRM

Invade Offices of The Crescent Insulated Wire & Cable Company

BRANDISH PISTOLS

One Official and Stenographer Only Persons in Office At the Time

By International News Service

TRENTON, N. J., Aug. 30.—Four armed bandits, working with precision on a well-timed schedule, invaded the offices of the Crescent Insulated Wire and Cable Company's plant today and escaped in a high-powered sedan with a payroll of approximately $25,000.

The gunmen entered the building a few seconds after an armored bank car drove away from the plant, now working at capacity on a number of government contracts.

Brandishing pistols, the robbers warned Charles Pearce, an official of the firm, and Miss Viola Elmer, a stenographer—the only persons in the office at the time—against making any outcry. The leader snatched up the payroll and the bandits fled to a car which they had left at the curb with its motor running.

Fifteen minutes later, the sedan was found abandoned one mile from the scene of the hold-up. Police theorized the gunmen had transferred to a second get-away car. A check-up disclosed the abandoned vehicle was a stolen car and that the license plates on it had been taken from an automobile earlier in the week at Lambertville.

The sum of $2200 was turned over to the cashier for poultry sales at the combination auction of the Rice Brothers, near Solebury, this week.

Demand for poultry was high, and offerings were heavier.

The sale of the poultry alone amounted to $2212, and the proceeds of the entire sale, attended by between 1500 and 1800 persons, was $3665.75. Almost all of the poultry was sold during the afternoon. The highest price received was 23 cents a pound for Leghorn and barred rock pullets.

The sale of cattle was rather dull. Four cows were sold at prices which ranged from $36 to $75. One heifer was sold for $34. The demand for calves was strong and during the afternoon 15 head were disposed of at prices which ranged from $4.75 to $24.50. The five bulls sold brought from $21 to $50, and two sheep brought $4.25 each. Only four goats were sold, they bringing from $1.50 to $8.75. Three horses were offered, but only one was sold, it bringing $43.

Of the approximately 200 hogs offered, 145 were sold at fair prices.

With the president, George H. Ely, in charge, the meeting this week was attended by 22 members and two guests, one from the Point Pleasant club and one from the Newtown club. Samuel Horn, chairman of the game committee, reported the arrival of 220 pheasants on August 17th. These birds will be fed for 12 weeks by the various members before they are released in the different zones. It was reported

WILLKIE CLUB FORMED FOR BUCKS COUNTY

Headquarters Are Opened At 57 West Court Street, Doylestown

URGE VOTERS REGISTER

DOYLESTOWN, Aug. 30.—"Willkie For President Clubs of Bucks County" have already been organized in five communities and preparations are in progress for the organization of at least three more within the next two weeks.

The clubs are now engaged in a State-wide registration drive, and the Bucks county clubs are playing an important part in getting Bucks county's unregistered vote lined up behind the Willkie colors.

Headquarters for the "Willkie For President Clubs of Bucks County," at 57 West Court street, Doylestown, is a busy place these days. The chairman of the county unit is Thornton Lewis, Windy Bush Road, Wycombe. Henry D. Paxson, of Holicong, well known Philadelphia and Bucks county attorney, is secretary of the county clubs and Edward W. Fell, of Holicong, is treasurer of the county unit.

During the next week a large number of associates who will carry on the work of the Willkie Clubs in Bucks county, will be named.

The Associated Willkie Clubs of Pennsylvania are self-supporting. They are working in Bucks county in co-operation with the regular Republican organization, but are devoting their efforts principally to enroll the independents and the Democrats of Bucks County, many of whom are 100 percent for Willkie for President.

"The need right now is for volunteer workers to carry the campaign for Wendell Willkie into every voting precinct in Bucks county," Chairman Lewis declared. "If you are interested in starting a Willkie Club anywhere in the county, contact the headquarters here in Doylestown at once and we will organize your club immediately."

"Willkie For President Clubs of Bucks County" have already been organized in New Hope, Buckingham, Langhorne, Newtown, and last night at Perkasie. Next Wednesday night, Sept. 4, a club will be organized in Quakertown.

At the present time the county headquarters is anxious to hear from people in Bristol and Morrisville who are interested in organizing clubs.

"No matter what your race, creed or color," said Lewis.

Axis Forces Balkan Solution

Vienna, Aug. 30.—In record time, the Rome-Berlin axis today forced a solution of the troublesome border fight between Romania and Hungary, awarding to the latter nation a slice of Transylvania estimated at 50,000 square kilometers.

Romania accepted the settlement imposed by German Foreign Minister Von Ribbentrop and Italian Foreign Minister Count Ciano after a 12-hour "conference" at the Belvedere Palace.

Official announcements said that Romanian integrity would be kept intact, Hungary being given only the part of Transylvania to which she is considered entitled. The settlement, it was said, will establish a "more natural" border than previously existed.

The major sources of friction have been removed, Nazi quarters said, and possibility of a "British coup" in that area eliminated.

SINCE his nomination the New Deal effort to disparage Mr. Willkie has been singularly ineffectual, partly because the attacks are so clearly partisan and malicious and partly because the known facts have constituted an adequate answer. THESE seek to place a measure of the blame upon Mr. Willkie because, while he has unequivocally declared himself in favor of both these propositions, certain Republican leaders in House and Senate

BRISTOL TOWNSHIP IS DIVIDED FOR HIGH SCHOOL ATTENDANCE

County Directors Make Definite Division for Bristol and Bensalem High

AIDS TRANSPORTATION

Bus Schedules Are Also Announced for Term; Subject to Change

The dividing line for high school pupils in Bristol Township has been set by the Bucks County Board of School directors for the 1940-41 term, and bus schedule announced.

The county board has designated a line through the township, running back from the Delaware River, with all pupils northeast of that line assigned to Bristol high school, and all southwest of the line assigned to Bensalem Township high school.

The line, starting at the Delaware River, runs due west to Badger School, continuing on through the railroad to Bristol Pike; thence west on Bristol Pike to Newportville Road at Croydon Manor. The line continues along the middle of Newportville Road a short distance back from Bristol Pike, ending at Nesheany Creek. All above this line are assigned to Bristol high school, and all below (southwest) to Bensalem Township high school.

HOLIDAY

Safety organizations, state motor vehicle commissioners, automobile clubs and allied agencies have unloosed the annual flood of warnings against motoring perils which attend the Labor Day week-end. Indeed, the number of statements were matched only by the fatalities among the motorists at whom they are directed. For warnings and statistics seem to make little headway in a nation which accepts with callous disregard a highway death toll of 100 a day.

Last Labor Day week-end 250 persons perished by automobile, many of them innocent victims of fools behind steering wheels. There were the usual pre-holiday statements, the mortality figures were paraded again. Drivers were warned not to cut in, to take it easy at grade crossings, not to pass on curves or hills, not to speed nor hog the road and not to drink and drive. All sound advice and the press patiently played it up again. The result? Misery for 250 families into which death rode on rubber tires.

There may be just as much misery this year. There are—sickening thoughts—several hundred persons well and strong today who may be dead by Tuesday despite all the sermons on highway safety ever written.

NAZIS MAY TURN EAST

General Sir Archibald Wavell, commander of Great Britain's armies in the Middle East, expresses the view that Hitler, balked in his plan to invade England, may emulate Napoleon and "turn East in search of easier success."

As autumn and winter approach with unfavorable weather conditions for air combat or any other form of Nazi invasion, it is entirely possible that the Fuehrer may take another tack, and it is significant that the Italian press has been trying hard to work itself into a fury against Greece on the charge that the Athens government has designs on Albania. Italian troops are reported massed at the Greek frontier.

An attack on Greece could hardly fail to bring Turkey into the war and thus the conflagration would spread with unpredictable results.

REACHING OUT

Individuals can be divided into two classes: The stationary sort of person, and the sort who reaches out for better things.

The business man, the farmer, the worker who just stands still in his tracks, satisfied with what he has yesterday, and trying merely to keep that, has no reason to feel any great confidence in the future. The world moves too fast for him.

The business concern, in particular, must constantly reach out for new trade. Old customers move away, some of them pass away, and people's habits change and they go to new stores to shop. A concern must advertise to hold its own in this changing world, and it must advertise still more to make gains.

An alibi to end alibis was given by a man who was captured after he had broken into a Detroit bank along after midnight. He told the police that he wanted to take a look at the institution's books to see if his wife was fooling him about her balance in the savings department.

A professional man is one who makes money at a job he knows and loses it monkeying with some other game.

and many others who serve as officials of the organization, members of staffs of agricultural colleges, and vegetable growers from all over America.

An escort of Pennsylvania Motor Police added the queue of cars as it passed over Bucks County's highways and by-ways, with an amplifying system operating from a truck at strategic spots, informing the large gathering of interesting things about the particular farms visited, the acreage under cultivation, the crops specialized in, number of employees, type of equipment, etc.

At the Becker Farms, Bensalem Township, Stanley Q. Becker, greeted the travelers, and escorted them through the packing house where hundreds of bushels of spinach were being dumped from trucks onto conveyors, sorted, washed, iced and packed in baskets ready for shipment. The guests were informed that no horses are used on the 700 acres under cultivation but that all types of tractors are brought into play.

The route was so arranged from the Becker farms to the Starkey and King farms, that those coming from all parts of the United States had opportunity of viewing Bristol's residential section along the river, then as the caravan left this area it was routed through several miles of hard-surfaced roads through the Starkey and King farms. A brief halt was made first at the Starkey farms, near Morrisville, where from the sound truck parked close by scores of workers in a beet field, Paul Starkey, Jr., spoke briefly. He told that there were 1700 acres being cultivated, with asparagus, string beans, spinach, beets, carrots, lima beans and broccoli grown chiefly. Seventy-five acres are planted to tomatoes for a canner; and some beets are also produced for a packing plant. Mr. Starkey was introduced by Mr. Hallowell, the Philadelphia County farm agent, who also mentioned that Paul Starkey, Sr., and Austin Starkey were present to greet the visitors. Mr. Hallowell informed that for three generations the Starkeys have been growers of vegetables, adding that the birth of a son to Mr. and Mrs. Paul Starkey, Jr., last Sunday, assures continuation for another generation.

Upon arrival at the King Farm, of which Karl C. King is general manager, and the association president, Mr. Thompson, production manager, luncheon was served. Although conditions were not very favorable for the farm machinery demonstration in the 34-acre tract especially prepared for the event, the demonstration went on according to schedule, with dusting by airplane as a climax.

The activities which centered about the packing plant, followed the tour of the 6500 acres of the King Farms Company. Of this acreage, 2400 acres are planted to vegetables, the balance being planted to soil improvement crops, and some acreage for lakes which provide water for irrigation. There are 280 acres for asparagus, 500 of broccoli, and large acreage to parsnips, cucumbers, spinach, etc. In the packing plant the men and women witnessed the sorting and packing of beans, washing and packing of parsley and cucumbers, and bunching of broccoli.

Following luncheon the group witnessed the large exhibit of farm machinery, including cultivators, tractors, distributors, dusters, combination seeders and fertilizer drills, etc. Approximately 600 are employed at the plant regularly, with about 1,000 in packing seasons, and occasionally 1,600 extra during bean harvest.

Culminating the program of the afternoon was a demonstration of farm machinery under direction of C. Fred Watts, of the King Company, and his field demonstration committee. In addition to the demonstration of the irrigation system, all types of cultivation, dusting, etc., were presented by means of the modern machinery. A large number made a pilgrimage to Pennsbury, the restored manor house of William Penn, along the Delaware River, before returning to Philadelphia.

RECIPES: Those Which Interest Women

Meat Solves Large Group Meal Riddle

Meat Dishes Are Easy to Prepare and Cook for Large Dinners

There is, perhaps, no problem more puzzling than finding something to serve when in charge of a meal for a large number of people. And this is just the season for big get-togethers: family reunions, club picnics, alumni meetings and other similar occasions where there is enough visiting to last the coming year and enough food to do likewise.

Inez S. Willson, home economist, can help out on that problem. She says that large roasts are always welcomed by hungry crowds and preparing a roast is such a simple process that there is hardly an easier way to solve the large quantity problem. A rib roast of beef, the loin, shoulder or leg of pork; smoked ham, the leg or shoulder of lamb and a round of veal are all excellent roasts and may be served either hot or cold.

In order to roast meat to the best advantage, use a low, constant temperature, about 300 degrees F. for beef, lamb and veal and about 350 degrees F. for pork.

Roast at Low Temperature

Put the roast into a pan with its fat side uppermost. As the fat melts it will automatically baste the roast, making further basting unnecessary. Unless the bones of the meat form a natural rack, place the meat on a rack so that it won't touch the bottom of the pan. The roast should not be covered and no water should be added. Simply put it into the low temperature oven. A meat thermometer inserted into the center of the thickest muscle will show exactly when the meat reaches the doneness you desire. Another meat dish which is convenient and economical for large groups is a meat loaf. Here is a recipe for a meat loaf that will serve 50 people.

Meat Loaf for Fifty

1½ lbs. ground veal
1½ lbs. ground pork
4 lbs. ground beef
1 medium onion
3 cups grated raw carrots
2 tablespoons salt
½ teaspoon pepper
5 eggs
1 quart bread crumbs
2½ cups milk
6 slices of bacon or salt pork
Mix ground veal, pork and beef together. Add chopped onion, grated carrots, seasonings, slightly beaten eggs, bread crumbs and milk. Pack firmly into greased loaf pans, filling them three-fourths full. You will need three loaf pans about 12 inches by 4 inches. Place the slices of bacon or salt pork over the top of the loaf, bake in a moderate oven for about one hour.

A Jingle, But Safe and Sane Reducing Plan

Jack Spratt, who let his wife eat the fat while he ate the lean, had the right idea if he was interested in reducing his figure. Although perhaps it may be the Mrs. Spratts of our day who do most of the worrying about being too fat or too thin, anyone who is interested in seeing the pointer on the scale swing farther to the right or to the left may do well to consider the nursery rhyme about Jack and Mrs. Spratt and their tastes in food. Inez S. Willson, home economist, declares there is both rhyme and reason in the jingle.

A person excessively overweight should of course consult a doctor before going on a campaign to lose weight, for there may be a physical condition which must be corrected.

But the average person, in good health, can safely cut down on the so-called fattening foods without feeling any ill effects. In fact, most people who weigh more than they should, taking height, age and build into consideration, are either eating too much or are eating a poorly balanced diet containing too much food high in calories.

Lean Meat for Reducers

Mr. Spratt took off pounds in a safe and sane way. Liberal quantities of lean meat are recommended for the diet of those who wish to reduce. Lean meat is an excellent source of high quality protein, the building element in food. Even though the number of calories is reduced, bodily health will not suffer if there is plenty of protein to rebuild wasted tissues and bolster one's vitality. Also there should be enough iron in the diet to insure good, red blood. Since liver is the richest source of iron among foods, a serving of liver once a week is recommended to those who are reducing.

One of the reasons lean meat is important in a reducing diet is that meat satisfies hunger for a longer period than other foods and prevents the pitiful "all-gone feeling" which afflicts many "reducers."

Include Fat to Gain Weight

If a diet based on sound principles of nutrition is followed, there is little need to vary the menus of the ordinary household. By selecting the lean portions of meat, cutting away all visible fat the person wishing to reduce can eat a satisfying amount of the meat course. Vegetables and fruits low in calories can be eaten freely, while pies, pastries, rich puddings and sweets are to be avoided.

Since the amount of fat on meat determines its caloric value, a diet designed for weight gaining would include both the fat and the lean of meat. So whether you wish to gain weight or lose weight or whether you have no qualms at all about stepping on the scales, meat has a definite place in your diet. Since it contributes many of the essential elements we require, it is a valuable food for all.

FOOD MARKET

Advice-

WITH the summer's last long weekend, Labor Day, on this week's calendar, extra shopping and planning will be necessary in order that the housekeeper can enjoy her holiday just as much as the rest of the family. It might be an excellent idea to plan roast meat or fowl as the main course for Sunday and a cold meal for Monday.

Turkeys will be a special item throughout the East in the stores of one of the largest food chains and duckling is so low that it should appear on the menu at least once during the week. Broilers and fryers are one of the best buys on the market and cold fried chicken is a popular dish one could offer the family.

Stuffed eggs combine well with cold meats and the prices of eggs for this season of the year are good, while the cooler weather of the past ten days has also made the quality better. Hard boiled eggs with Russian dressing is another excellent idea for a cold meal.

California Grapefruit

California grapefruit is coming into the market this week and the supply of California figs is liberal and the prices are low. There are also some purple figs on the market as well as the white ones, which are not only good for dessert but are also excellent for preserving and canning. The Northwestern Greening apples are becoming more plentiful and the price is low. Apples are adaptable to a variety of uses so can have frequent place on the menu without fear of monotony. As a special dessert try them stuffed with raisins and nuts, then baked and sprinkled with coconut.

The Tokay grapes are starting into market this week and Northwestern plums are quite plentiful and reasonably priced. Almost the only berries left in plentiful supply are huckleberries, with a few strawberries and raspberries from California. The Cuban avocados have started coming in and have that delicious nutty flavor which is one of their characteristics.

It is seldom that one can get bell peppers as low as they are now and stuffed peppers are always a happy choice for a main course. Both green corn and lima beans are at the height of the season so do not miss an opportunity for fresh succotash while the supply is good. Among the particularly good buys in vegetables as announced by one of the large food chains are green beans, beets, both red and white cabbage, corn, carrots, peppers, potatoes, onions and tomatoes. If you like homemade pickles and relishes this is a most excellent time to put up a supply as all of the green vegetables necessary are plentiful and low priced.

Shrimp More Plentiful

Shrimp, which has been scarce due to storms, is much more plentiful this week and the medium sized shrimp are quite moderately priced. On the list of fresh water fish particularly good buys are carp, perch, mullets and whitefish. From the Boston fish market comes news that lobster prices should be lower this week as the supply is more plentiful. For a low-cost Sunday dinner the following menu is made up of particularly good buys this week:

Roast leg of lamb
with browned potatoes and carrots
Apple and grape salad
Blueberry muffins
Orange ice with cookies
Iced tea or iced coffee

WE'D LIKE TO SEE ★

An American Flag in Every American Home and we're going to

WE'RE glad we're Americans. We know the sun shine's brighter on the Stars and Stripes. And we know this is no time to be passive about our love for America and everything for which it stands.

OUR hearts are filled with the joy we take in being American. We're grateful that we live in a democracy. We ought to say so. We ought to fly the banner of our freedom—display the symbol of our pride—BE GLAD WE CAN FLY THE AMERICAN FLAG BECAUSE WE WANT TO, NOT BECAUSE WE HAVE TO.

WE don't need a holiday to fly the Stars and Stripes. We don't have to wrap our flag in lavender. It's precious—but it's sturdy and dependable, too. Strong as America itself.

THAT'S why we say we'd like to see an American Flag in every home in America—in every home in our town, at least. If you have a flag in good condition, use it. Run it up! Hang it out! If you don't have a flag, we'll help you get one.

Here's How to Get Your Flag ★

FLAG COUPON

YOU MAY HAVE THE FLAG ALONE IF YOU PREFER

The flag will be the same size (60 inches by 36 inches).

Bring the six coupons and 59 cents to The Bristol Courier office.

No flags will be delivered, and none will be charged.

This is a special limited offer. It is made possible through a special arrangement with one of the leading flag manufacturers in the country.

We urge you to avoid disappointment by clipping the coupons and getting your flag or flag set NOW.

If you do not now subscribe for The Courier you may obtain either the flag or the flag set by subscribing for two months, and paying either 59 or 99 cents and clipping six coupons from issues of The Bristol Courier.

Pay weekly for your paper to the collector.

A fine quality, durable, well-made American flag set (the flag itself measures 60 inches by 36 inches), is made with sewn stripes and printed stars in clear, fast colors to make your heart glow with pride.

The set comes completely equipped with a strong, blue-lacquered, six-foot pole, ornamented with a gilt ball top. The halyard is 113 inches long, and there is a convenient silvered metal window bracket to make it easy for you to attach the flag to your porch or window sill.

It's all packed in a heavy cardboard case, reinforced with metal corners to protect Old Glory through the years.

The Great Game of Politics

unquestioned control over his party's members of Congress, or to expect them to accept, unquestioned, his leadership on all controversial issues, is just to be impractical.

POLITICS does not operate that way in this country—and probably never will. Until and unless Mr. Willkie is elected the politicians of his party in Congress, while supporting him as the candidate, feel under no compulsion to accept his advice as to their votes when the advice conflicts with their record, their personal inclinations or their local political interests. Until he is clothed with the immense power of the Presidency, which includes the ability to distribute the vast patronage of the Presidential office, he is without weapons to enforce his leadership and become the party dictator in such matters.

WITH that power he can—and should—become the absolute dictator of his party, able to compel acquiescence in his views—at least for a time. If he cannot do that under those circumstances, then he should be indicted for weakness. But to indict him now, before he has any of the things which the politicians want and respect—and when there is a possibility he may never have them at all—to indict him now for failure to swing into line all members of his party in Congress on such a question as conscription is simply to be unrealistic.

IT IS easy enough for these perturbed theorists to insist that Mr. Willkie two months ago should have established himself in control of all those party people who are not in accord with his expressed views on all important questions. But it is not easy to say how or with what he should establish that control. It is, in fact, impossible. He has no whip to crack. He is in no position to give orders. A mere reiteration of his opinions would be ineffective. Personal requests would change no votes. Mr. Willkie has made himself perfectly plain. No one has any doubt where he stands. But to assume that failure of every Republican in Congress promptly to fall into line on these proposals is an indication of weakness in Mr. Willkie and a reason for believing that, if elected, he could not carry out his promises just does not make sense—at least not to practical people.

NOR DOES it seem sensible for the gentlemen who are stressing this very strained point against Mr. Willkie to ignore the fact that, although Mr. Roosevelt's own party has two thirds the membership of the Senate and a large majority in the House; and although he not only is the sitting President but is seeking to continue as President; and although his Republican opponent has strongly endorsed his position on these issues; and although he is supported on them by an overwhelming number of anti-Roosevelt newspapers and a large number of anti-New Deal Democratic members of Congress, who do not usually follow his lead—in view of these things, it does not seem sensible to ignore the fact that still he is unable to prevent dangerous delay on these vital measures.

IT WOULD seem that if there is to be an indictment of leadership in this business it would be far more logical to indict the leadership of Mr. Roosevelt rather than that of Mr. Willkie. If the situation demonstrates weakness, it would seem to be his weakness rather than his opponent's. It seems, in fact, not only unfair but absurd to take this situation and interpret it as making Mr. Willkie responsible. Nor will it serve any good purpose, unless it is thought good to furnish the third-termers with a specious argument against Mr. Willkie which they had not thought of before and which certainly would not have occurred to anyone with a sense of political proportion and reality.

Couple Wed Yesterday To Live in Australia

A reception followed at the Hartman residence.

The bride was attired becomingly in white tulle and tulle, and she carried white gardenias and gladioli.

The maid of honor, Miss Ruth Hartman, wore a gown of dusty pink moire, flowers graced her hair, and she carried white and pink gladioli. Two of the bridesmaids were garbed in blue and two in old rose gowns. They carried pink and white gladioli, and wore flowers in their hair.

The bride is a graduate of Falls Township high school, and of West Chester State Teachers College. She taught music for a time in both North and South Carolina, and has been engaged as a teacher of music at Silver Bay, N. Y. She will continue in that post until December when she and Mr. Smith will sail for Australia. The groom is employed at present at the Y. M. C. A. in Silver Bay.

Newtown Club Urges Road Improvements

instructed to write a letter to the State Highway Department in Harrisburg stating the present deplorable condition of Route 532, generally known as the Buck road.

It was stated that there have been several accidents this summer on the Buck road. These took place on the high crown and curve just below Center avenue, and at the railroad underpass at St. Leonard's. The members feel that the Buck road has become a dangerous highway due to the number of accidents occurring along the route. Most of the drivers involved in these accidents were from other communities and were unfamiliar with the road.

Some time ago the club was instrumental in getting a new bridge across the Neshaminy Creek at Spring Garden Mills on Route 332 from Newtown to Richboro. When the new bridge was constructed the road was relocated to eliminate a dangerous curve on the approach, thus preserving the old covered bridge as an historical landmark.

tional agriculture courses, and new music books will be put into use this year. The amplification system purchased last year by the student council will be used this season for assemblies and athletic events.

Dates have been set for the continuation of the community fair, an event which last year brought more people to the school than any other project. October 31st and November 1st are the days set aside for this event, and Wayne Bitting will again be in charge of arrangements.

One room is being refurbished with tables and chairs, and the entire building is receiving a thorough cleaning.

A considerable amount of work has been done on the school grounds during the summer by the W. P. A. crew employed there for the past year and one-half. All of the area surrounding the buildings has been resurfaced.

The swings, bars and slides for the elementary grade children have been moved to a larger playing space.

HULMEVILLE

The Hulmeville-Middletown board of school directors has named Miss Dorothy Schire, of Northampton, Northampton County, as teacher for grade one in the local school. Miss Schire is a graduate of the Stroudsburg State Teachers College. Enumeration of children of school age in Hulmeville borough discloses a total of 124, a drop from last year's figure. The enumeration was in charge of Miss Edna M. Schatt. Thirty from the borough will attend high school this term. Work has been started on the erection of an additional fire escape on the school building, the new one being located at the rear, with exit from rooms in the addition placed a few years ago.

Harry Doran and grandchildren, Margaret and Frank Fields, Bristol, have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Ferdinand Reetz.

During the week-end, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Vornhold, Charles Vornhold, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Phipps, Miss Jean Phipps, and Alfred Comly were in Seaside Heights, N. J.

Guests this week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Everett were Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Gerity, of Philadelphia, and Miss Joann Dixon, of Mt. Holly, N. J.

Mrs. Frank Muth was removed to Abington Hospital in the ambulance of Bucks County Rescue Squad. She was suffering from appendicitis.

Mrs. J. Weston and children and Mrs. H. Brown visited Mrs. Martha Brace, Philadelphia, a few days this week.

Feature Elizabeth Price
As "Artist of The Month"

The Gallery of the New Hope Art Associates in New Hope will open its new exhibition on Sunday, September 1st, featuring M. Elizabeth Price as "Artist of The Month."

Miss Price has long been a resident of New Hope and owns an old stone house on the famous Delaware Canal. Her work is well known to the American public and has been exhibited at the Corcoran Gallery, the Carnegie International, the National Academy of Design and the Pennsylvania Academy. Her canvases hang in many public and private collections from San Francisco to Honolulu and her flower panels, painted on backgrounds of gesso and metal leaf, have long been a feature of major exhibitions throughout the country.

Among the works of Miss Price to be featured by the New Hope Art Associates will be two panels of oriental poppies in white and orange, painted in oils on a background of palladium leaf. These panels were modeled from the living plants and executed on the banks of the old canal.

Another of Miss Price's canvases, "Rice's Sale," is of especial local interest. This auction sale is famous for miles around and is held bi-monthly near New Hope, drawing local residents as well as hundreds from outlying districts who come to buy and sell every sort of commodity. "Rice's Sale" suggests crowding and confusion amid a friendly atmosphere—a sensation of lively human interest which the artists has so admirably conveyed.

"Ponte Vecchio" is a European scene painted when Miss Price visited Florence some years ago. To obtain this unusual view, the artist found it necessary to work early in the morning when the jeweler's booths were closed and traffic at a minimum. This scene of old Florence with its quaint streets and beautiful architecture was painted within a stone's throw of the house of Benvenuto Cellini.

GRAND THEATRE

Drama tense with emotion reigns in "Four Sons," the great and timely picture which opened yesterday at the Grand Theatre. Played with deep and moving conviction by the excellent cast, the film made a strong impression on the first night audience.

Ideally cast in the gripping film is Don Ameche, who adds an outstanding performance to his long list of screen triumphs. Eugenie Leontovich, fresh from her outstanding stage portrayals in London, Paris and New York, lends her brilliance to a moving role. In her first screen portrayal the famous stage actress scores a sensational triumph.

CROYDON RAMBLERS BEAT CROYDON REX BY SCORE OF 8 TO 1

Both Teams Played Exciting Game, With Ramblers Holding Edge

BOWERS SCORED FIRST

Johnson, Ramblers' Goalie, Shut Out The Rex Team In Last Two Periods

CROYDON, Aug. 30.—The Croydon Ramblers defeated the Croydon Rex last evening by the score of 8 to 1 before a large turnout.

Both teams played an exciting game, with the Ramblers holding a slight edge in the first period.

In the first period Elmer Bowers, of the Ramblers, scored the first point on a pass from "Bill" Ritter and this point was quickly followed by 3 more points from the sticks of "Bud" Ritter, Bud Bowen and George Ritter.

The Rex point was scored by Sammy Ennis on a pass from Sottung.

In the last two periods the Ramblers goalie, "Dick" Johnson, shut out the Rex, assisted by some good defense work on the part of Bill Ritter, Elmer Bowers, Boltz and Bud Hickert.

The scoring of Bud Ritter, Bud Bowen and Tommy Keene with two points each featured the Ramblers attack and the playing of Goalie Elmer Jester who made many good "saves", featured the Rex.

GAME MAY BE PLAYED TONIGHT IN SUB LEAGUE

The Diamond and King Supply teams will make their third attempt to play the final scheduled game of the Bristol Suburban League this evening, meeting on the Bensalem high school field.

A victory for King will close the league and mean the beginning of the playoffs. A Diamond triumph gives it a deadlock with Croydon Y. M. A. for first place and means a three-game playoff for the large trophy which goes with the championship.

"Ad" Helveston will pitch for Diamond being opposed by Pat Moylan, of the King team. O'Donnell will catch for the King boys with Angelo on the receiving end of Helveston's slants.

Game will begin at 6.15.

WILLKIE CHALLENGES ROOSEVELT ON DRAFT

Wants To Know President's Attitude On Overton-Russell Amendment

"POTENTIAL DICTATOR"

By Walter Kiernan
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent
RUSHVILLE, Ind., Aug. 30.—(INS)—Wendell Willkie today hailed passage of the Selective Service Act in the Senate but condemned in vigorous terms the Overton-Russell amendment, providing for government acquisition of private plants when there is disagreement with the service branches, attending toward "potential dictatorship."

The Republican presidential candidate publicly challenged President Roosevelt to make his position clear on the amendment.

"Is he for or against the Overton-Russell amendment?" he asked.

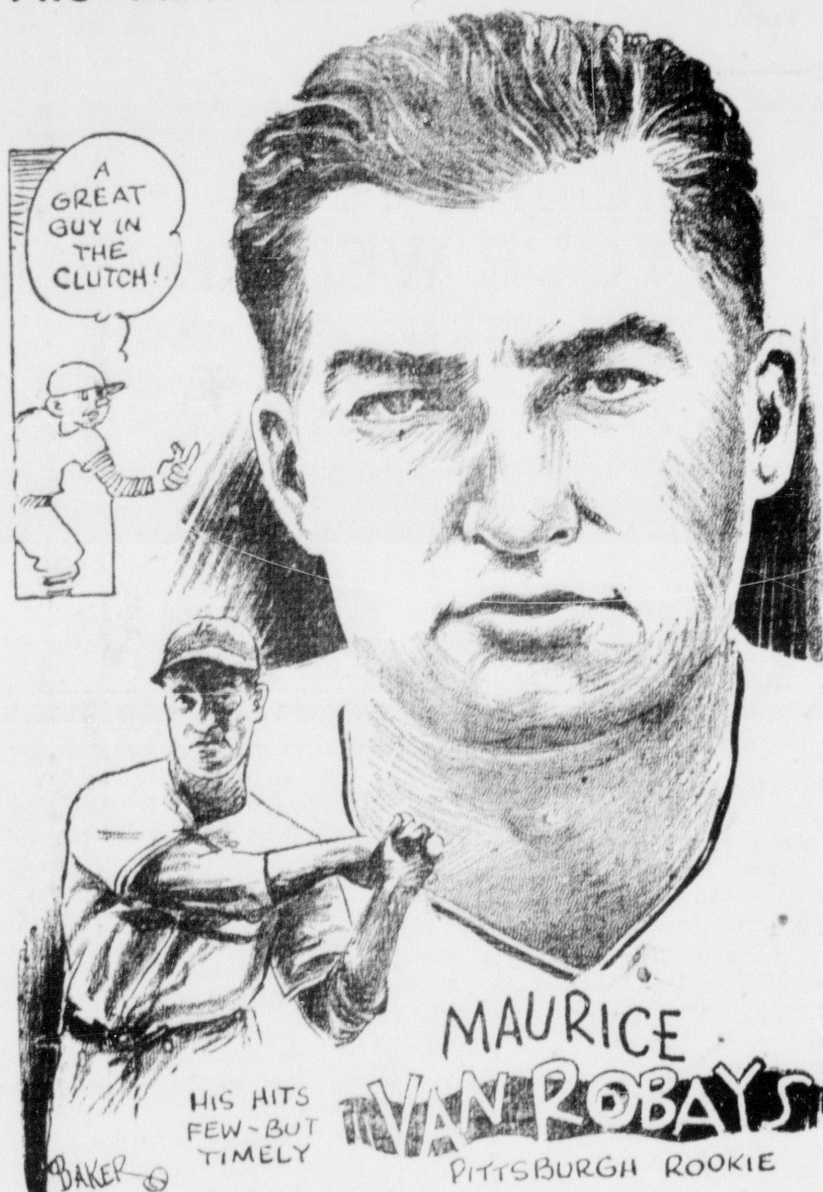

"I put this up to the President now and I hope that he does not answer with any quip about how Wendell Willkie loves property and he loves humanity."

The Overton-Russell amendment, Willkie charged, "gives the President of the United States absolute and arbitrary control of virtually the entire economic system of the United States for within the term 'facility' all American business, and perhaps American agriculture, could conceivably be included."

"No such sweeping powers were ever heretofore granted to a president of the United States even in time of war. This amendment if it becomes law, will further impede and disorganize the defense program at the very time we must speed it up."

"While extraordinary powers to commandeer American enterprise similar to those of 1916 may be necessary in the event of war, I cannot understand why they should be necessary at this stage of our defense program, when we are at peace and presumably intend to remain so."

HIS HITS HURT—THE ENEMY!

LOOKING FORWARD

By Franklyn Waltman
Publicity Director, Republican National Committee

Well, it looks like we are in for a pretty dirty campaign, perhaps the dirtiest Presidential campaign within memory.

Such is the only conclusion which can be drawn from the New Deal strategy plans revealed so far. Instead of squarely meeting the momentous issues raised by Wendell Willkie in his speech accepting the Republican Presidential nomination, the Roosevelt strategists prefer to deal in personalities—and in falsehoods, at that.

Like scavengers in a city of carnage, the New Deal beagles are searching birth, death and court records in a feverish effort to find what they are pleased to term "all the dirt possible" on the Republican Presidential nominee and his supporters generally. Even the dead will not be immune to attack by innuendo if present efforts are continued.

Everyone with a grudge who will bear false witness against the opposition is being enthusiastically interviewed. Words and phrases are being torn from their context to be used to damn Wendell Willkie and his supporters. Smear artists and wielders of poison pens are in great demand around various Democratic headquarters. What they dare not write is put out to be whispered.

Democrats, who cannot stomach in good conscience a third term for Roosevelt or any man, are subjected to attack by innuendo and intimations when they express their convictions. Newspaper publishers and editors who dare to record their honest opinions are made the target for White House scorn and jibes.

Apparently the New Dealers are willing to go to any length to avoid debating on their merits the third

Throughout the speech Ickes referred to Mr. Willkie as a "Wall Street lawyer," a statement based only on the fact that before being nominated for the Presidency the Republican leader had an office at 29 Pine Street. But this building is just around the corner from 120 Broadway where Mr. Roosevelt practiced law before he became Governor of New York in 1929. Ickes did not mention that fact.

Ickes intimated that Willkie approved of the activities of Samuel Insull. This is an outright lie. Not only did Willkie oppose Insull and his methods but Insull tried to drive Willkie out of the public utility business. Insull said the utilities business was no place for a young man with Willkie's ideas.

Likewise untrue was Ickes' contention that Willkie was associated at one time with Tammany Hall. Ironically, Ickes undertook to proclaim himself an opponent of political machines—Ickes who was photographed at the Chicago Convention in July in a roundtable huddle with the smelly Ed Kelly of Chicago and the equally odorous Frank Hague of New Jersey!

Tactics such as Ickes', however, are not effective because his intellectual dishonesty is so obvious. Perhaps more effective are the subtle efforts of the Roosevelt Administration, led by the President, to silence and put in a strait-jacket the American press, which dares oppose the third term.

Illustrative of this part of the campaign was the President's slick effort to embarrass Roy Howard, chief of the Scripps-Howard newspapers, by seeking to draw him into his Administration for a phony job. No more honest, fearless and independent newspapers exist than the Scripps-Howard group. In 1932 they supported Mr. Roosevelt. They did so again in 1936. For some months now they have been very critical of the Roosevelt policies and failures—and they have had some praise for Wendell Willkie.

So what does Mr. Roosevelt do? Obviously he seeks to attract the support of these newspapers by trumping up a job to offer to Mr. Howard. He proposed that Mr. Howard undertake a special mission to influence the press and leaders of South America. Mr. Howard replied he was happy to be of what service to the country he could, but that he was not qualified for such a job—that it had been 20 years since he had maintained close contacts in South America. He suggested that the job go to one more competent to perform it.

Mr. Roosevelt did not care about obtaining a competent man—he wanted a particular publisher who had some twenty newspapers under his direction. Thus chagrined he intimated to the Chicago Convention that there was a man who refused to serve his country. Then his satellites leaked out Mr. Howard's name to the New Deal journalists while Mr. Howard was out of the country. Finally, Mr. Roosevelt confirmed that he meant Mr. Howard in his speech to the Chicago Convention. The implication was plain—though entirely unjustified—that Mr. Howard was a slacker in these critical times.

Such is the treatment given to newspaper publishers and editors who re-

London, Aug. 30.—In retaliation for British raids on Berlin, a force of 300 German war planes attempted to attack London today but all except two were driven back by Royal Air Force fighters at the fringe of the capital.

The two which came over while the population ducked to the shelters dropped scores of small incendiary and high explosive bombs which caused some damage in one area of London and elsewhere.

A fire station was destroyed by a direct hit and some damage was done to private property.

Seventy incendiary bombs fell in a single densely populated street but by good luck all landed in the roadway. Not a single house was touched and the bombs burned themselves out.

The Germans used formations of about 15 to 20 planes each in attempting a mass penetration of the London area, leading to the spectacular air combats.

But watchers said the British fighting planes and anti aircraft fire constantly break up the German formations, preventing all but single machines from entering the London area to unload their cargoes. Finally, as the Germans gave it up and turned homeward, an eyewitness posted on the outskirts of London reported: "The fight is still going on here but it seems that most of the Germans have turned back."

Great Britain Expects Attack In Middle East

London, Aug. 30.—The Middle East may be the next scene of an early new Italo-German offensive, British military circles predicted today, admitting that a major attack on Egypt from Libya is expected.

They said that German troops probably will aid the Italians in this venture if it is undertaken.

Large Italian mechanized forces are reported concentrated opposite the Egyptian frontier, but British quarters pointed out that they are confronted with the problem of maintaining their supplies in a waterless desert.

Turkey To Aid Greece

Athens, Aug. 30.—Turkey will lend Greece immediate armed assistance in event of attack by Italy, the Turkish envoy to Athens informed Premier Metaxas today.

Metaxas later had an hour's conversation with American minister Lincoln McVeigh and then saw King George.

NEON-EYE Solves Problem that has Vexed All Motorists

Never Before Possible To Balance Wheels 100% for Safe-Easy Driving

BEAR DY-NAM-IC WHEEL BALANCER is a product of the world's leading manufacturers of Safety Testing and Correction Equipment, the Bear Mfg. Co. of Rock Island, Illinois, whose equipment is to be found in a majority of the Safety Tests throughout America.

"WHAT good is it if my car can go over 60 if I don't feel safe driving it at high speeds—when at certain speeds it begins to shimmy or tramp or vibrate excessively?"

"I've tried and tried to get someone to get that shimmy out but no one seems able to do it!" That sums up the complaint of 9 out of 10 car owners. The cause of the complaint is UNBALANCED WHEELS.
